

ABSTRACT

A service system for distributing one's own records or specific dates through a diary and a post using a network. This service system is featured in that the registration of password is executed in an information storage box of the individual such as an original home page of a network such as an internet, thereby creating one's own diary and mail box relevant to the password for entering future information; the password is input in inputting or outputting any information thereafter; a recorded date is input in the diary and the information occurred on that date is described in the column of that date; a designated future distribution date is input in the mail box and the information on the designation date is described in the column of the designation date; the information thus described is transmitted to the information storage box to store the information therein; the retrieval and distribution of information of the designated data from the information storage box is received by the diary; and the information is optionally and automatically distributed from the information storage box on a designated distribution date.